

Clinical Genetics Society Medical Student Prize 2024-2025:

'Horizon scanning: how will advances in genomics shape patient care over the next 10 years?'

Deadline: 12pm GMT, Monday 2nd December 2024

Entries are invited for the annual Clinical Genetics Society medical student essay prize. All medical students, including intercalating students, at UK-based medical schools are eligible to apply.

Prizes:

1st place: £200 & free registration to the UK Clinical Genetics Society conference 11th & 12th March 2025 in Sheffield, including reasonable travel expenses and up to 2 days accommodation cost. The winning essay will be published in the abstract book for the conference.

2nd place: certificate

3rd place: certificate

Details regarding submission:

- Title: 'Horizon scanning: how will advances in genomics shape patient care over the next 10 years?'
- Length: Up to 2,000 words (excluding title and references).
- All submissions must commence with the following table:

Full name
Contact email address
Year of study
Medical school
Declaration of academic integrity	By submitting this essay, I confirm that this submission is my own original work, and that references are used to acknowledge any content or quotations included in my essay. I confirm that I have not used any Artificial Intelligence-generated output.

- Entries must be received by 12pm GMT, 2nd December 2024. Submit via email to j.garcia-frutos@soton.ac.uk
- If there are any questions, please contact: j.garcia-frutos@soton.ac.uk
- The winner will be announced by: 10th January 2025.
- Please note, if there is any evidence of a breach of academic integrity, CGS will contact the student's medical school.